for immediate Release: Thinking Right, for May

Now You See it, Now You Don't

Some promises are like an impressionist painting. The image in the mind of the originator is not what is visualized in the mind of the recipient. A pocket watch is easily recognized until you see it in a Dali painting all bent out of shape, barely recognizable, fluid and morphing even as you stare at it.

President Obama, while on the campaign trail, railed against the use of 'supplemental' funding to obscure the true cost of the campaigns in Iraq and Afghanistan. Now in his budget, he has hidden costs, increases and weapons costs in other areas of the budget, including the funding of four F-22 fighter jets cut in the Pentagon Defense Budget – now you see them, now you don't – or the allocation of $95 million to North Korea after tough talk in public about economic sanctions. After promising increased security for consumer airline travel, President Obama is quietly ending the federal firearms program, decreasing public safety on airlines in the name of an anti-gun ideology.

There is so much dissembling in the defense budget, the Obama administration has directed defense officials to sign a pledge stating they will not share 2010 budget data with individuals outside the federal government. In an undated non-disclosure agreement obtained by Defense News, the administration tells defense officials that "strict confidentiality" must be practiced to ensure a "successful" and "proper" 2010 defense budget process. Obama promised to run the most transparent White House in history—disclosing donations, shunning lobbyists, and broadcasting important meetings on C-SPAN. Transition captain John Podesta reiterated the point later when he said Obama's would be "the most open and transparent transition in history." But the shades are drawn at the windows and the lights out because the Administration, "Loves darkness better than light." (Gospel of John Chapter 3)

While campaigning, Obama went out of his way to assure gun owners he had no desire to increase gun restrictions, assuring people he believed in the Second Amendment. After nominating Eric holder, an ardent gun control advocate, as Attorney General, Obama has directed him to push to reinstate the Clinton Gun Ban, using creative accounting to blame the US for 90% of the guns used by Mexican drug cartels in their continuing blood bath. The actual percentage of guns originating in the US is closer to 17%. Obviously, to keep the bloodshed in Mexico from spilling across the border into the US, the obvious solution is to close the border with increased Law Enforcement and Military presence. Instead, the Administration wants to take the guns from US citizens, leaving them helpless in the face of armed Southern invaders, and has directed the National Guardsmen to return to their bases, leaving the borders unprotected except for a badly undermanned and under armed Border Patrol. Sunday, April 19, 2009, Secretary Napolitano went on CNN and proclaimed that crossing the border illegally is not a crime. This statement left a lot of folks scratching their heads given that U.S. law—the law Napolitano is sworn to uphold—says quite the opposite. Section 8, Title 1325 of the U.S. code clearly states that those who enter the U.S. illegally are committing a crime. Letting 12 million illegal aliens off the hook, and at the same time removing the protection of the Second Amendment from U S Citizens is an illegal, treasonous act by members of the Obama Administration.

"The Lottery, Gambling, tobacco, alcohol taxes are what is known as a regressive tax, that it hits the lower income people much harder than the higher tax brackets. Is it fair? If you don't gamble you don't pay, yes, I think its fair". Vance Lackore This is apparently Gov. Crist and others answer to the recession.

Is this the United States of America? Who would believe that General Motors, once the #1 corporation in the world now reduced to needing to borrow billions of Dollars in new debt to continue in business. Federal government is now directing the largest banks, insurance companies, and national corporations. The Japanese carmakers Toyota and Honda are making money manufacturing automobiles. What happened that we forgot how?

"Don't forget, America, this came from the Democrat, leftist, liberal, elitist group that doesn't comprehend ordinary God-loving, happily-married, main stream Americans who love babies, not kill them, who vow to defend liberty and freedom and not knuckle under to every two-bit anarchist dictator around the world." Dr. Vance Lackore

Pray for our Constitutional Republic. We are not a Democracy or a Socialist State but a nation of We the people, With "one nation under God" as our national motto. We are and a Christian nation, "One Nation Under God" as long as WE THE PEOPLE say, because we are a Constitutional Republic, and the people have the say. Only if we the people surrender will this change. At the top, #1, is our Christian God. #2 is the people. After that comes our elected government employees. We must never forget this order. President Obama is not God, neither is Speaker Pelosi, or Reed. They are our employees. God inspired a new form of government for us, with freedoms never before existing.. If you doubt any of this I recommend you read our Declaration of Independence, Constitution, with Our Amendments.
